What are you doing?

- 1. Insiders: your job is to have a group conversation. Take turns. Listen respectfully and respond to the previous speaker before saying your point. Your goal is to include everyone, or at least give everyone the chance to share.
- 2. Outsiders: your job is to listen and to keep track of one person on the inside. How often did that person speak? Did this person answer a question, ask a question, repeat what someone else said? Encourage someone else? Describe this person's body language – was he or she looking at the speaker? Leaning forward? Arms crossed? Head down? Whispering with someone else? Doing math homework?
- 3. You will switch roles soon.

Honors

April 21, 2015

Learning target(s): I can understand 1984. I can be a good speaker & listener.

Agenda:

- 1. Reading Quiz!
- 2. Quick Write & Three-Minute Reports
- 3. Discussion

Homework:

- 1. Post vocabulary words tonight – include one one-syllable word
- 2. Chapters III-V due Friday

Quick Write

Here are today's 2 topics for the Three-Minute Reports. Make a super fast list of topics you'd cover if this were your topic.

- The characterization of Winston
- Discuss the setting – time, place, general atmosphere, daily life; parallels to history; how is this dystopic already?

Quick Write

- Put away your list and listen to the presenters.
- Get out your list. Add to it: check the items the presenters covered. What else can you say about the presenters? Remark on their speaking skills, their content, their organization. Just be fast.

Discussion

- 1. The questions from yesterday – how do you see those pertaining to the book so far?
- 2. Clarify anything in the reading.
- 3. What is ironic so far? Is this book a satire, or just full of ironies? Is it funny? If not, what is the tone?
- 4. What details about setting or Winston haven't been covered yet?
